Solar Movement

Solar cells under the dial convert light into electrical energy and store it in a secondary battery. Therefore Fred does not need a silver oxide battery and no battery change.

Energy

Before you wear your watch for the first time, charge it for at least 5 hours in sunlight or 2 days in normal daylight. Of course, the watch should not overheat. The running time is then approx 4 months. Charging at regular intervals is necessary for smooth functioning. To prevent discharging, always keep your watch in such a way that it always receives light. A complete discharge over a longer period of time can damage the memory cell. When the second hand starts moving at two-second intervals, this is a signal that the energy is beginning to run out.
